PRODUCT INFORMATION

Phosphatidylcholines (egg)

Item No. 24343

CAS Registry No.:	8002-43-5
Formal Name:	Lecithins
Synonyms:	E 322, Lecithin (egg), Lecithinon, Phospholutein, PtdCho, 3-fluoro UB
MF:	C ₄₄ H ₈₄ NO ₈ P (for oleoyl)
FW:	786.1
Purity:	≥98%
Supplied as:	A solution in chloroform
Storage:	-20°C
Stability:	≥2 years

Information represents the product specifications. Batch specific analytical results are provided on each certificate of analysis.

Laboratory Procedures

Phosphatidylcholines (egg) is supplied as a solution in chloroform. To change the solvent, simply evaporate the chloroform under a gentle stream of nitrogen and immediately add the solvent of choice. Phosphatidylcholines (egg) is soluble in the organic solvent ethanol.

Description

Phosphatidylcholine is the most abundant phospholipid in mammalian, plant, and yeast cells.¹ It is found mainly in the outer leaflet of cell membranes and can make up approximately half of the total phospholipids.² In mammalian tissues, phosphatidylcholine commonly contains a saturated and unsaturated fatty acid at the C-1 and C-2 positions of glycerol, respectively. It is a substrate for various enzymes in cell signaling pathways that is cleaved by phospholipases into diacylglycerol and phosphocholine or phosphatidic acid and choline. Phosphatidylcholines (egg) is a mixture of phosphatidylcholines isolated from chicken egg with fatty acids of variable chain lengths acylated to the sn-1 and sn-2 positions.
