Laboratory Procedures

Dipalmitin is supplied as a solid. A stock solution may be made by dissolving the dipalmitin in the solvent of choice, which should be purged with an inert gas. Dipalmitin is soluble in organic solvents such as ethanol, DMSO, and dimethyl formamide. The solubility of dipalmitin in these solvents is approximately 0.25, 30, and 20 mg/ml, respectively.

Further dilutions of the stock solution into aqueous buffers or isotonic saline should be made prior to performing biological experiments. Ensure that the residual amount of organic solvent is insignificant, since organic solvents may have physiological effects at low concentrations. Organic solvent-free aqueous solutions of dipalmitin can be prepared by directly dissolving the solid in aqueous buffers. The solubility of dipalmitin in PBS, pH 7.2, is approximately 0.7 mg/ml. We do not recommend storing the aqueous solution for more than one day.

Description

Dipalmitin is a diacylglycerol that contains the saturated 16-carbon fatty acid palmitic acid (Item No. 10006627) at two positions.
