Laboratory Procedures

1-(2-Amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone is supplied as a solid. A stock solution may be made by dissolving the 1-(2-amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone in the solvent of choice, which should be purged with an inert gas. 1-(2-Amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone is soluble in organic solvents such as ethanol, DMSO, and dimethyl formamide (DMF). The solubility of 1-(2-amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone in DMSO is approximately 1 mg/ml and approximately 2 mg/ml in DMF. 1-(2-Amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone is slightly soluble in ethanol.

Further dilutions of the stock solution into aqueous buffers or isotonic saline should be made prior to performing biological experiments. Ensure that the residual amount of organic solvent is insignificant, since organic solvents may have physiological effects at low concentrations. Organic solvent-free aqueous solutions of 1-(2-amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone can be prepared by directly dissolving the solid in aqueous buffers. The solubility of 1-(2-amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone in PBS (pH 7.2) is approximately 0.25 mg/ml. We do not recommend storing the aqueous solution for more than one day.

Description

1-(2-Amino-3-hydroxyphenyl)ethanone is an active metabolite of the quorum sensing-regulated molecule 2-amino acetophenone.¹ It increases survival in a mouse model of P. aeruginosa-induced post-burn infection when administered at a dose of 7.6 mg/kg.
