phosphotyrosine peroxidase conjugate. Mouse Monoclonal Antibody

Mouse anti phosphotyrosine, PY20, HRP conjugate, Horseradish peroxidase conjugate

BACKGROUND

The role of tyrosine phosphorylation in transduction of the mitogenic signal from transmembrane receptors and in transformation by oncogene tyrosine kinases has been the subject of intense investigation for several years. While the phosphorylation of specific tyrosine residues has been shown to be a primary mechanism of signal transduction during normal mitogenesis, cell cycle progression and oncogenic transformation, its role in other areas such as differentiation and gap junction communication, is a matter of active and ongoing research. Antibodies that specifically recognize phosphorylated tyrosine residues have proved invaluable to the study of tyrosine-phosphorylated proteins and the biochemical pathways in which they function. The HRP conjugate of PY20 anti-phosphotyrosine is especially useful for the detection of phosphotyrosyl proteins in western blotting, immunohistochemical and immunocytochemical protocols in situations wherein the use of a secondary antibody would produce undesirable background signals.

IMMUNOGEN

Hybridoma produced from Balb/C mice immunized with phosphotyrosine coupled to carrier protein.

POSITIVE CONTROL/TISSUE EXPRESSION

A431 cells stimulated with EGF(Exalpha Cat # X1003)

COMMENTS

Working dilution of 1:2,000 is suggested for western blot or ELISA, 1:500 for immunohistochemistry or immunocytochemistry.
